JUDGING THE SCOTTISH TERRIER 6 Key Elements of Scottish Terrier Type

Harsh outer coat & dense undercoat - to protect dog from injury & inclement weather.

Movement - Gait is unique to the breed with forelegs that incline slightly on acceleration while rear legs move true. A correctly built Scottish Terrier should cover ground well despite his short leg.

Long head - in proportion to the size of the dog, skull medium width, good fill under eye, good strength of muzzle with sizable teeth.

Heavy bone and substance - for the size of the dog.

Temperament - shows true terrier temperament, no shyness or timidity.

Low to ground - deep brisket ending below the elbow. Compact from withers to tail, however, longer from point of chest to point of rump. Obvious forechest and obvious rear shelf add to length.

"No judge shall put to Winners or Best of Breed any Scottish Terrier not showing real Terrier character in the ring."
